Binding Cases Now Available

A YEAR’S issues of “The Journal of Agriculture of Western Australia” may be bound into a handsome volume that will find a welcome place on any farmer's bookshelf. Filled with sound information presented in an attractive form, the Journals provide a means of acquiring an excellent agricultural library at low cost.

In order to assist farmers wishing to preserve their copies of the Journal, arrangements have been made for the supply of attractive binding cases.

These cases, if sent to a bookbinder together with the six issues of the Journal, will enable him to make up a neat, strong book that will give a lifetime of service as a source of readily-available information.

The comprehensive index at the end of the November-December issue is designed to facilitate the use of the book as a work of reference.

The binding cases are red in colour, with full cloth over stout board covers, and white lettering as shown in the accompanying illustration.

They may be obtained by forwarding 5s. to the Government Printer, Murray Street, Perth, and this price includes postage. Intending purchasers are advised to place their orders early as it is anticipated that there will be a heavy demand for the cases.
